

CHARTISM.—A shoemaker, called Joseph Naylor, of Mirfield, has been the source of much amusement to his neighbours by his chagrin at the failure of the “Sacred month,” and the destruction of his hopes in living in splendour at Kirklees Hall ! He is loud in denouncing the cowardice of O’Connor and the rest, and feels it a “sacred” duty” now to caution his fellow dupes from being again made the dupes of such folly and extravagance.